Here are some of the miracles which have been established by public investigations made by our authority and by that of the Sacred Congregation and examined with great care:

XLIX. Jérome Genin had drowned and his body was taken out of the water, placed on the ground, then wrapped in a sheet and already giving off a fetid odor, when all of a sudden he came back to life, moved his arms and raised his voice to make known Francis’ praises, stating at the moment of his coming back to life that he saw a vision of him vested in episcopal attire with a face glowing full of goodness. This resurrection was accompanied by no less miraculous circumstances.

L. Claude Marmoz, 17 years old, born blind and entirely deprived of the organ of sight, having prostrated himself at the tomb of the Servant of God, got back his sight after completing a novena of prayers.

LI. Jeanne-Péronne Evraz, 5 years old, was a paralytic; her legs and thighs were so thin that she was considered to be incapable of ever being able to move; however, at the very time when her father was praying for her at the tomb of Francis, she was immediately healed and ran to her mother.
LII. Claude Julliard, 10 years old, was stricken with a paralysis from birth, which deprived him of the use of his thighs and legs. His mother brought him three times to Francis’ tomb to have him kiss it. The third time, he all of a sudden felt a strength and vigor pulsing through his members, which, up until that time he was not able to move. He got up, stood on his own legs and walked steadily.

LII. Françoise de La Presse had fallen into a river where she drowned. Not only did she come back to life but through another miracle the lesions, the swellings and other deforming marks, which were the result of this accident, completely vanished.

LIII. Jacque Gaueydin, who was completely paralyzed from birth and whose nerves had contracted, was immediately cured.

LV. Charles Moteron, who was paralyzed from birth and whose body was hideously deformed, was cured instantaneously. He took on a normal human appearance and walked with ease.
